PRANKS OF INVISIBLE POWER ARE MYSTERIOUS

Strange Occurrences Not Uncommon in Portland Family.

PORTLAND, Oc. Oct. 31.-R is de clared by alleged witnesses that a second exhibition of the unknown force which turned the contents of a Marshall street house topsy-turvy Thursday, occurre Saturday in a lodging house to which the eleven-year-old boy mentioned in con nection with the former exhibition had

After the first occurrence, when a dining table, chairs, chinaware and kitchen utensils moved like things alive and defied all known laws of nature, according to many spectators, the mother of the child is said to have been notified by the owner of the Marshall street premises that if the boy had been responsible she must take him away.

Saturday morning the mother took her child to the lodging house, and in the afternoon another exhibition similar to the first is declared to have occurred.

The child's name is Ernest Harps. He is a son of Mrs. Annie Harps and grandson of J. C. Sanders, both families having lived at Saxon, Iron county, Wisawher the boy was born.

Mayor Bransford Asks For Friendly Council

"I want to have a few words with the hundreds of men and women of Salt Lake City who have not been supporters of the American party, but who have given me the assurance that they intend to support me in my candidacy for re-election.

"I am deeply grateful to all of these for their expression of confidence in me and I shall do all in my power to merit this confidence. But it will be impossible for me to fulfill my pledges to give a business-like, progressive administration unless the couneil is in accord with the mayor's office.

"The people of Salt Lake City cannot afford, under existing conditions here, to elect a majority of the councilmen pledged to one thing and the executive pledged to another. The two branches of the local government must be harmonious or the administration can hardly be made a success.

"Do not elect me and then tie my hands. Give me a council pledged to support me and I shall labor unceasingly during the next two years to give the people an administration which will meet the endorsement of every fair-minded and progressive voter

One day more and the straggle between the forces of progression, and those of retrogression will be decided. Tomorrow will determine whether you will rise to a consciousness of the great duty that devolves upon you of making the result one of the most splendid victories for truth and honesty, morality and enterprise, that has yet perched upon the banners of the party under whose wise government the city has attained to its present proud position. Or it will determine whether the city, like a brilliant meteor that shines with dazling splendor for a brief period and then sinks into the obscurity of the night, will vanish into the inglorious realm of nossbackism.

The Bible contains more than the revealing of God's great purpose of a racial salvation in love. It mirrors in the record of every life limned there the care of God for man, the individual.

God has been in the ignorance and sealous devotion of gread men sadly misrepresented. They have misread alike His purpose and His nature. Some of the noblest literature and poesy of the age is outworn because of that fact. This great holds the characteristic attiliade of
